SAINT FRANCIS BORGIA
 October 10

FRANCIS BORGIA (1510–72), who has been called the "second founder of the Jesuits," began his public career as Duke of Gandia and Viceroy of Catalonia at the court of his friend and relative Emperor Charles V. He was the widowed father of eight before he entered the Society of Jesus at the age of 40. Always courteous, humble, and generous, he was yet a determined and enterprising administrator. In 1556 he was given charge of all Jesuit missions abroad, and in 1565 he was elected General of the order. Working always in closest cooperation and friendship with Pope St. Pius V and St. Charles Borromeo, he shares their stature as a great figure of the Catholic Reform. Though he longed to go as an apostle to India, he wrote to another would-be missionary: "You will find your India wherever the Society needs you."
