

St. Stanislaus
 Bishop and Martyr
 May 7

EARLY IN THE eleventh century, Stanislaus, a holy priest, was made Bishop of Kraków. The ruler of Poland was then King Boleslas II, a famous warrior but a man of lust and cruelty. Bishop Stanislaus alone had the courage to rebuke the violent ruler; and when Boleslas persisted in his misdeeds, Stanislaus excommunicated the royal culprit. Boleslas then went to a chapel where the bishop was saying Mass and murdered him at the altar.

Liturgically Speaking

The Feast of the Ascension is on the Thursday 40 days after the Resurrection. The Ascension of Our Lord is one of the six Holy Days of Obligation in the USA. After the Gospel at the principal Mass, the Paschal Candle is extinguished. After the Mass, this candle is put into storage in a box in the sacristy. It is not displayed anywhere in the church outside of Paschal time, and is not placed in the baptistery. Its only role in the liturgy after being blessed, lauded with the Exultet, and immersed in the baptismal font at the Easter Vigil is to stand (representing the Risen Christ) on the Gospel side of the sanctuary during the 40 days between Easter and the Ascension. A typical Paschal candle can be used for multiple years if needed (changing the date each year), even up to five years for taller ones, before it becomes too short to be liturgically fitting (below 24"/60cm). It is brought out of its box and blessed each time in the Lucernarium which begins the Easter Vigil. Once the Paschal candle has reached the end of its use, it can be melted down. The incense grains can be new each year, or reused. Note that the red tacks do not contain grains of incense, although there may be incense powder mixed into the red wax. As the rite requires grains of incense, it is necessary to imbed a grain into the side each of the tacks. Some authors, however, state that incense grains must be embedded directly into/onto the Paschal Candle, and that incense grains mixed in wax or encased in wax invalidate the blessing of the candle.
